Naval Flier Hears Chorus in "Messiah"

Jesse Dean Taylor, who received the Bachelor of Science degree in Education from the College in 1938 and who is now doing active duty in the U. S. Navy air fleet at Norfolk, Va., visited at the College Thursday morning, Dec. 22. He was present for the chorus presentation of Handel's oratorio, "The Messiah."

Taylor was graduated from the United States Navy Air School at Pensacola, Fla., and has been in the fleet more than a year.

Former Student Is Employed on Forum

Ralph (Bill) Berger, Maryville, a former student in the College, this week began his duties as advertising solicitor for The Maryville Daily Forum. He will assist Ben Weil, advertising manager. He was employed at the Montgomery Clothing Company for several years after he had attended the College for one year.

President Lamkin, Dr. Jones Go to Chicago

President Uel W. Lamkin and Dr. W. Jones, dean of the College, left last night for Chicago, where they will this week-end transact College business.

Tom Collins of Kansas City Journal Writes of NYA Unit

Editorial Writer Praises Work Of President Lamkin, Mr. Reid

Under the heading "This One's On Me," Tom Collins, editorial writer of the Kansas City Journal, makes the following comments about the NYA school at the local Teachers College:

At State Teachers College in Maryville, Mo., Uncle Sam is experimenting with boys.

The government is using more than 100 lads between the ages of 18 and 25 to see if some theories of education will work in a practical laboratory.

These young men are members of the National Youth association and they are getting practical experience along with their schooling.

Some of these boys have had high school educations and some have not. Some are being given free schooling by the government with a chance to work on the side and some are being given work by the government with a chance to go to school on the side.

Only School in America

These sound like the same ideas, but they are not. In one instance, the government is testing boys who want to work to see how they will react to schooling and in the other group is testing boys who want to go to school to see how they will work.

This is the only school in America where the NYA boys are building their own quarters and school buildings with material furnished by the government and getting paid for it.

Tad Reid, veteran athletic coach, football star and for many years at the State Teachers College at Warrensburg, is in charge of these boys at Maryville.

Reid No Amateur

Mr. Reid is no amateur at handling young men and he is enthusiastic over these boys of the NYA.

"They're fine boys," Mr. Reid said. "They're willing to work and they're willing to learn."

President Uel W. Lamkin of the college is highly cooperative. He said he'd start a class for just one boy, if that boy showed any enthusiasm for study.

Boys' Enthusiastic

I talked with some of them, and I want to tell you they're enthusiastic.

Faculty Proves That Christmas Is Happy Time

Many Travel Far to Spend Annual Holidays

The Christmas holidays must have offered a gala time for many of the faculty, as evidenced by the various places where they spent their vacation. A number of the instructors traveled far to visit friends and relatives, while others spent a quiet vacation at their homes in Maryville.

Following are the ways a number of the faculty members spent the holidays, according to interviews by Missourian reporters this week:

President Uel W. Lamkin spent his Christmas vacation at his home in Maryville.

Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Jones visited with Mrs. Jones' parents in Bloomington, Ind. They were accompanied by Emma Lee Vance, secretary to Dr. Jones.

Dr. Francis R. Anthony and his sister, Miss Hettie Anthony, visited with their sister in Lebanon.

Mr. R. E. Baldwin and family visited his parents at Carroll, Ia.

Miss Lucille Brumbaugh and Miss Mary Keith went to Mount City, where they visited with Miss Gladys Criswell, a former instructor at the College and now a teacher of corrective speech in Cincinnati, O.

Miss Hazel Burns spent the vacation with her parents at Creston, Ia.

Mr. George H. Colbert's eldest son, son of Grinnell college, Grinnell, Ia., visited with the Colberts' during vacation.

Dr. Blanche H. Dow and Miss Olive S. DeLuce attended a meeting of the American Association of University Professors in Chicago.

Mr. H. R. Dieterich and family spent Christmas with Mr. Dieterich's parents in Marceline.

Mr. Roy Ferguson attended the national Conclave of the Sigma Tau Gamma fraternity at Cleveland, O.

Miss Mary M. Fisher spent Christmas in Fergus Falls, Minn., where the temperature was thirty degrees below zero and the velocity of the wind was fifty-two miles per hour.

Geography Plays Important Role In History

German Imperialism Based on Geologic Factors Mason Says

Geographic reasons play an important role in the history of economic developments in Europe, especially those centering around Germany and France, Dr. Carol Y. Mason, member of the College geography department pointed out in a talk before the International Relations Club Tuesday night.

"Germany, with more imports than exports, looks hopefully towards the Hungarian and Ukrainian grain fields," Dr. Mason said. "Germany has no manganese, which is found in abundance in the Ukrainian country."

Dr. Mason told how in middle geologic ages a chain of high mountains extended east and west which formed what was then Europe. Parts of southern France and Italy have climates like California, she explained.

"Winds coming in from the Atlantic cause coastal regions to have a cool climate," she added, "while inland regions are warmer, thus more adaptable to raising of crops."

"Along the west coast of France, which is cold and wet, the country is unproductive and backward. However, the inland country around Paris, is very fertile and has a warm sunny climate."

The geography instructor gave as one of the main reasons why Germany desires to gain territory is because northern Germany is not suitable to raising crops. Germany's great problem is not producing food for her farm class, but for her great manufacturing centers. Germany today produces ninety per cent of the food she needs.

Dr. Mason continued, "Germany has only made her problem more acute in her annexation of Austria, which has only a small amount of iron ore. This means what Germany has more people to support."

"Alsace-Lorraine is a transition country," she concluded. "Both Germany and France want to own that country because it is rich in iron ore and coal deposits."

Missourian, Tower Staffs to Hold Joint Meet Today

As a preliminary step in preparation for the "Scoop" Dance, annual party sponsored by The Northwest Missourian and the Tower, members of those two staffs will hold a joint meeting at 4 o'clock this afternoon in Social Hall. The "Scoop" Dance is the affair where College beauty queens are introduced to the public for the first time.

While the exact night for the dance has not been decided, it probably will be held the second week-end in March. Beauty queens will be nominated in the near future and some outstanding American personage will make the final choice, and his decision will be announced at the annual publications' dance.

Cooper Goes To Assembly

Mr. A. H. (Bert) Cooper, chairman of the extension department at the College and state representative from Nodaway county, left for Jefferson City Monday where the legislative assembly convened Wednesday. Mr. Cooper plans to return to Maryville about April 1, he said before leaving, unless there is an extra long session of legislature.

JAMES POWELL, member of Sigma Tau Gamma fraternity, who represented the local Theta chapter at the organization's national convocation held Christmas week in Cleveland, Ohio. Four other members of the Maryville chapter also attended the meeting, but Powell was the official delegate.

College Library Half Complete, Inspector Says

Work on Exterior Of Structure is Almost Finished

P. W. A. Resident Engineer Inspector Neuman recently announced after an inspection that the new College library is half completed and that the work so far has been very satisfactory and has met the high standards of the specifications for the building.

The brickwork of the exterior has been completed and work is rapidly progressing on the gypsum roof and the tile partitions. The new and modern stacks which have been ordered will arrive and be installed this week.

In his report Mr. Neuman stated that the building will be ready for use before many months and that the project compares favorably with many other similar projects taking place in this state and in the nation. When the building is completed the College will have one of the most modern school library units in the country.

Communist, Socialist, Fascist Propaganda Felt in Two Sections

East Central, Middle Atlantic States Colleges are Most Propagandized

By JOE BELDEN, Editor

Student Opinion Surveys of America Austin, Texas, Jan. 6.—Communist, socialist, and fascist propaganda among college students is being felt mainly in the East Central and Middle Atlantic states. This is shown by a nation-wide poll taken by the Student Opinion Surveys of America just as the Dies committee ended its investigation of un-American activities and is making preparations for another.

The committee questioned professors of a New York college and other witnesses when it directed its search for propaganda to the college and university ranks of the nation. What those people have seen and heard went into the record—but what about the views of the students themselves who are now supposedly being besieged with a multitude of "isms?"

Geographic Report

The Student Opinion Surveys of America for the first time point out what the collegians have to say in all sections of the country. Although when the results are taken nationally one student in every ten says there has been some attempt to influence him, the poll reveals that student bodies in the West and South are very seldom approached with such propaganda.

A staff of interviewers have asked this question to a carefully selected cross-section of students of all descriptions: "Has any attempt been made on your campus to influence you with communism, socialism, or fascism?" By geographical sections, they have answered:

Section	Yes	No
New England	8.2%	91.8%
Middle Atlantic	19.5%	80.5%
East Central	12.3%	87.7%
West Central	4.2%	95.8%
Southern	5.2%	94.8%
Far Western	5.8%	94.2%
In the West Central, Southern, and Far Western states, it is noted influence is almost negligible. But when all the results are pooled for the entire country, the sections with much higher percentages raise the total figure of "yes" answers to 10.5 per cent.

And how are these students being

Public Affairs Spotlight Thrown On Inter-Collegiate Conferences Held During Christmas Holidays

Seven College Students Attend; NSFA Delegates Condemn Racial, Religious, Political Persecutions

Three inter-collegiate conferences attended by seven representatives of the local campus occupied the student affairs spotlight during the Christmas holidays.

Condemning all racial, religious and political persecutions, the National Student Federation of America in its fourteenth annual Congress last week at Purdue University in Lafayette, Ind., went on record as favoring student government activation and encouragement of peace interests and peace education on the campuses of the nation.

The College was represented at the congress by Durwood Maxted, Tabor, Ia., vice-president of the Student Government Association, and Bill Maloy, Redding, Ia., members of the Student Senate.

Recommendations

The congress accepted the following recommendations presented the general assembly by the commission on peace:

The good neighbor policy; the declaration of Lima; cooperation in the western hemisphere for the maintenance of peace and democracy; reciprocal trade treaties; non-partisan relief to victims of aggression; adequate national defense; cooperation with the United States Peace committee, the national peace conference, the international student service, and the far eastern student service fund; endorsement of the inter-American student conference; support of substitution of refugee students for Nazi and exchange students; and we condemn all racial, religious, and political persecutions.

The Congress also endorsed the President's rearmament bill for national defense and urged congress to halt shipment of arms and granting of loans to Japan.

The commission on election proposed and the congress adopted the following resolutions: "We believe that the Hare System of proportional representation is the most satisfactory system existing for democratic elections, and we recommend that this system be investigated by student governments; and we further recommend that the N. S. F. A. office obtain information on this system for distribution to interested schools."

The women should share the responsibilities of student government according to the proportionate rate of men and women students it was decided by the Congress.

N. Y. A. appropriations should be increased, the representatives at the congress believed, and a plan should be drawn up for redistribution of funds on basis of actual need. "While accepting federal aid to education and urging its extension, we strongly maintain that control of education should be left in the hands of the states and local communities; these agencies, however, should cooperate with the federal government."

Durwood Maxted, College representative, left Maryville December 25 enroute to Creston where he met Bill Malloy, the other representative. They arrived at Lafayette Monday morning and were housed at the Sigma Chi fraternity house.

They returned to Maryville by way of Chicago where they made a short stop.

Dr. Blanche H. Dow, chairman of the department of foreign languages at the College who attended a meeting of the American Association of University Professors in Chicago, Dec. 27 and 28, was elected to the national council of the organization to serve for a term of three years.

The council, composed of thirty-six members representing two from each district, meets twice yearly. Dr. Dow attended the meeting as a delegate from the local chapter of the A. A. U. P.

Miss Olive S. DeLuce, chairman of the department of fine arts at the College, accompanied Miss Dow to Chicago.

Garrett is Named District Chairman

Mr. Hubert Garrett, instructor at the College and member of the Maryville American Legion Post, has been appointed district chairman of the Legion oratorical contest by William Woods, St. Joseph, fourth district commander.

High school students in this district are eligible to enter the contests which will be based on some phase of the Constitution of the United States. Mr. Garrett has received details of the contests and will make further announcements later.

Students in the College Start
The New Year With New Vim

The New Year has definitely been inaugurated. The halls again teem with physical activity and the classrooms with mental activity. The year, 1939, seems to come very quietly but it brings new hopes and new ambitions to the student. It is like the start of a new quarter, giving the student the opportunity to grasp another hold on the academic spade and to dig harder and deeper for the knowledge that it is his for the working.

It might be said that New Year's resolutions are made to be broken. But if we are interested enough in our own welfare and our own advancement to make these resolutions we should try to develop enough enthusiasm and lower our resistance to study and concentration sufficiently to achieve a greater good in 1939 than we even dreamed of in 1938.

Some people will ask for, even beg for, another opportunity to show their ability and their capabilities along the line of their studies, but often they fail to realize that they can make their own opportunities and take advantage of them by merely setting their will, which is a free will, to the task at hand and continuing to bend their best efforts toward the goal which they have set before themselves.

So, with a head start on the youth, 1939, let us forge ahead expending our best efforts for the good of our own selves as well as for the glory of what will one day be our Alma Mater. With this, the first issue of the New Year, may the staff of THE NORTHWEST MISSOURIAN wish each and every reader the best of success throughout this year and may the end of this year find you moving onward toward your goal, a goal which moves on hear as a guiding star to keep us striving for that which is better than the present.

There Are Many Things One Must
Consider in Seeing a Movie

Someone has said that when people go to see a moving picture, they leave their critical senses at the ticket office. If they are doing that, they really get very little from the picture. They miss half the fun and most of the points. To get the most value from the picture, people must understand the basic ideas, the influence they exert, and the art of the technicians. They must interpret and evaluate the propaganda of the picture.

Everything we see or hear in a motion picture theater is propaganda for something or somebody. Propaganda organizes public opinion; it forms consciousness, or even conviction. Perhaps a picture gives constructive propaganda, as it does when it shows that active intelligence and understanding are a basis for real love. Propaganda may distort the truth, as it does when a picture shows that the poor are inferior and the rich deserving of unqualified respect, or that crooks lead interesting lives. Propaganda may be destructive to civilization, as it is when it shows that war is a wonderful adventure that will be beneficial to the majority of the people.

How many pictures have you seen that take a fearless, constructive attitude toward present-day problems? Can you agree with Walter Barnes, who said that when a moving picture "does present themes and ideas of current interest, it almost invariably takes the conventional, the conservative, the 'regular' position; it shies away from realistic thinking, liberal ideas, unorthodox views, but takes refuge in petrified mottoes and copy-book maxims?"

Since almost everything is propaganda, we must be certain that it does not distort the truth, but that it gives us ideas that are fundamentally sound and constructive. We must analyze motion pictures and ask two questions about each: (1) Is it true to life? (2) Where and how does it distort life?

If the propaganda in the moving pictures is not sound and constructive, we have one recourse—we can protest to the producers. They will not make pictures that the people do not like. J. G.

From the Dean . . .

Your years in college can open up new fields of learning and offer you opportunities to acquire information about many things of interest. College life and college friends can help you in many ways—but none of these values can come to you without effort on your part. Your attitude toward college life, college classes, all that the college stands for is of greater importance than all the rest. Your attitude toward your college life is the driving force that shapes you. Look at yourself.

Are you doing anything useful?
Is what you are doing worthwhile?
Are you clean, neat, thoughtful?
Are you a hustler?
Are you happy or are you a groucher? Why?
Have you faith?
Do you cheat in any way or in anything?
Do you treat others as you would like to be treated?
Do you plan or do you drift?
What have YOU caused others to think of you?

Editorialites

After a visit early this week to the new library building, the editorial chest certainly began to stick out. It is going to be a building that we can justly be proud of and though the interior is still a puzzle to most of the students, it already shows marks of grandeur. Our first impression upon entering the front door was of a hotel rather than a library with the two stairs rising from the center elevation of two steps which is to have a background memorial.

One of the outstanding features might be the reading room on the second floor which will seat approximately 275 people and will be ideal for its purpose because it will extend across the entire front of the building. The view from the entrance promises to be quite nice.

The Ambassadors of Swing, the College dance orchestra to you, are certainly doing a creditable job of "swinging." After stopping in at a rehearsal one realizes just what an earnest, hard-working group they really are and they deserve our cooperation and support.

It certainly proved to be a good idea for the College highway department to fill the "chuck-holes" in the College Drive because it makes a difference. And with the landscaping and gardening that is being done on the Drive, along the walk past the Industrial Arts Building and around the Horace Mann School the campus promises to be a veritable garden in the next year or two.

The Dance class received a Christmas present in the form of a new floor in Social Hall which very likely will be a welcome contribution.

Around the Campus

Quite a few of the students are running around the campus showing off Christmas presents, everything from shoe laces to new hats. And that includes those notorious neck ties that men get for Christmas. Heard one faculty man remark that he had worn a different one each day and now he was down to his last. Of course there are a few odds and ends floating around like "left-hand" sparklers, lockets, brooches, wrist watches and there was one of the boys even wearing a coat (new one).

That leads me to begin a discussion of the weather. This is most certainly the strangest New Year I have ever witnessed. It seems so much like March that I have already begun thinking up something to do on April Fool's Day.

It is a very difficult job to write this column, same as it is hard to study and go to class with punctuality and regularity but it seems that most of the students are doing as well as might be expected.

People are the most interesting of all humans, I think. Just try walking down the hall, or sitting "quietly" in the library some time and watch those you pass or who are occupying themselves with the usual student pursuits. The expressions on their faces and the changes of posture and similar activities are most interesting if you try to interpret the persons' attitude and thoughts by judging these actions. This is similar to talking to several persons about the same topic. One person said yesterday that "this has been the longest week" with the emphasis definitely on the long and the next person couldn't believe that the week had progressed so far so quickly.

I have often wondered just how many people read this paper and how thoroughly they read it. Very few people ever seem to drop in to offer suggestions, usually they want to raise—this typewriter because their name was in the Stroller or there has been some mistake. Oh well, it's a great life and we feel infinitely better than the fellow in the parachute jumping class who flunked his final exam.

Wit vs. Humor, Part 1

By Helen J. Reed
A brief and incomplete study of the subject of humor has recently been made by the author of this article. The author received her doctor's degree in Senseless Nonsense from the University of Humor last week. The degree was conferred by Baron Munchausen, himself a master of exaggeration. The author will hereby proceed (providing she can think of what she wants to say) to tell you some of the essential points of the philosophy of Humor. Being mostly as gleaned from the writings of Melville D. Langdon, better known as Eli Perkins or "one of the world's greatest humorists."

The difference between wit and humor is not usually analyzed, yet humor is always the absolute truth, while wit is always an exaggeration. Humor occurs while wit is the pure fancy or imagination of the writer. Mark Twain wrote a chapter on building tunnels out in Nevada. He described the miners truthfully and close to life. He went on with pure humor—pure truth for four or five pages. But soon his humor blossomed into wit. He departed from his truthful description and began to exaggerate. He began to describe a miner who thought a good deal of his tunnel. They all told him that he had better stop his tunnel when he got through the hill, but the

The Stroller . . .

As the tree said to the axe, "This will keep you splitting."

Ah, me! Another year has slipped up on the Stroller and as usual I forgot to make any resolutions. But why bother—the student body is doing it for me. Sat in front of Abe for a few minutes and the conversation went something like this:

"This year I'm really going to study. Got to quit this dating so much."

"You said it! I don't think I'll stick my nose out the door on a week night, not even to go to the library."

Wish they'd keep these resolutions—then I wouldn't have to write this column. But ah, humanity! thou art frail and the Stroller shall not stroll in vain.

And speaking of girls, Earl Boucher wants a new one for 1939. During the holidays, Earl had a chance to check up on his affair of the heart in K. C. Much to his chagrin, he found out that she wasn't living up to his expectations so there was nothing left to do but cross her off his list.

Now for youse guys what think you're detectives just 'cause you run down a pair of heels. There are mysterious goings on about the campus. The Seniors are planning a party and they're keeping all the proceedings a secret until the eventful night. A free pass to the party will be awarded to the bright sleuth who gets this scoop for the Stroller.

"Sonny Boy" Merritt had quite a time New Year's Eve. He made all the towns in Gentry county and is still alive to tell the tale.

That triple threat football player, Bill Bernau, has learned the art of wooing since Betty Dix has annexed him. Does this make our Bill a quadruple threat??

Can you imagine anyone being in school for over eight quarters and never having his name in the Stroller? That is the record of Marshall Mathews. Guess I put a stop to that.

The depression is over. Either that or the finance companies are doing a big business, for the vacation brought to light three or four carat's worth of diamonds. Lois McCartney, Lavona Staleup and Virginia Adams are all the proud wearers of a solitaire. Of course, we are happy for these girls, but wonder if they won't get a little lonesome in their new "solitary" confinement since the givers are so far away. Don Johnson decided that since he would be gone on so many basketball trips he had better cinch the deal with Mary Kyger, so she is another possessor of a "gem of purest ray serene." (Wonder why he didn't buy her a ruby to match 'er hair?) Gladys Miller received a diamond ring from the St. Joe flash, Frank Baker. And I hear that Marion Rogers, the all-conference guard, gave his school teacher girl friend one of the "hook" rings.

When it comes to Christmas presents, Mary Frances Sutton may not have gotten the most expensive but I'll bet she got the biggest. Boone gave her a cedar chest to keep her hopes in.

Heard at one of the fraternity houses: Active: "Who laid the table for breakfast this morning?" Bob Darr: "I did, all but the eggs."

The Christmas ball was nice, but could have been much nicer I thought. Of course, I suppose that's the way with us old phoggies, we always think the dances we used to have were the best. Notice a lot of strange people at the dance. Virgil Woodside, Frank Yourek, Mary Jane Newlon, and June Ernst all imported dates for the dance.

If you've read this far I want to warn you that just because we're having such wonderful spring-like weather you mustn't cut classes (This item was not solicited from the faculty) 'cause that won't help you to keep your New Year's resolutions.

Then there was the undertaker who, when he put ten corpses in a truck, sighed, "Not a coffin a carload."—Silver & Gold.

miner said it was his tunnel and he would run it as far as he wanted to, so he continued his tunnel right on over the valley into the next hill. You who can picture to yourselves this hole in the sky held up by trestlework will see where the humor leaves off and the wit begins.

Wit simply consists in exaggeration. When some one asked the Yankee farmer whose hogs were poor how he kept them from crawling through knotholes in the pen, he answered: "I tie knots in their tails."

Another example: "A wife of a district attorney calls him Necessity, because he knows no law." (New Orleans Times).

One more: (These are some of Eli Perkins' Humor Thoughts) "I saw two men shoot an eagle, and as it dropped on the ground, I said:

(Happy Thought) You might have saved your powder, for the fall alone would have killed him."
"Two Mississippi River darters saw, for the first time, a train of cars. They were in a quandry to know what kind of a monster it was so one said: (Happy Thought) It's a dried-up steamboat getting back into the river."

There is another kind of wit. The wit of truth. Truth is often stranger than fiction. A wonderfully true statement at first sounds like a lie, then as we reflect upon it the idea dawns upon us that it is the truth. There was pure wit in the truthful reply of the Irishman: "Pat how would you like to be buried in Protestant graveyard?"
"Faith, an' I'd die first."

NSFA Passes Resolutions For Teachers Colleges

Among the resolutions passed by the National Student Federation of America at its annual Congress held at Purdue university in Lafayette, Ind., last week were those on teachers colleges and the honor system. They follow:

TEACHERS COLLEGE—Majority

The commission feels that while there is a slightly different aspect from the teachers college point of view, fundamentally student participation in collegiate government is the same in all colleges. We realize that teachers are being trained to teach the future generations and therefore our training, philosophy, and experience in college must train us for a very definite leadership. We must therefore, receive the utmost from our colleges to prepare us for both the national and world community.

A. The Curriculum:

1. We feel that we, as prospective teachers, should cooperate with the faculty in planning a curriculum which will give us a well-rounded program. This program must meet our needs not only in the classroom but also in the social life of the community in which we are teaching.

2. Regarding the relationship between methods and instructional or subject matter courses we feel that while we are being taught the teacher is using a "method" in presenting his subject to us. We feel that while he is teaching he could impart to us some of the method or technique of teaching.

Could we not correlate "methods" with "subject matter"?

We feel that by evaluating a teacher's method while he is teaching us and by studying our reaction to this method, our formal method courses, or courses in which we study only the techniques of presenting definite defined subjects, would be more valuable to us.

B. Student-Faculty Relationship:

1. Here again there is a slight shading in the nature of this association. Our relation is not only one of "student" and "teacher," but also one of "teacher" to "teacher." We are being taught by teachers to become teachers. This is a professional relationship.

2. There should be a unity of purpose. The prospective teacher must initiate this by taking a definite interest in his preparation for teaching. He must resolve to get the utmost from his professional relationship. . . doesn't this relationship resemble somewhat the relation between the master and the apprentice. We are being taught by those who know in order we may do.

3. Regarding the timidity of students when serving on joint committees we feel that the faculty has a right from the standpoint of experience and maturity and we, as students, have equal right because we are closely associated with the student opinion. Both of these opinions must be considered impersonally by both faculty, administration, and students.

4. We feel that as prospective teachers we should be vitally concerned with state and national legislation pertaining to education and to facilitate that purpose we feel that student councils should sponsor open forums to stimulate and clarify student thought.

5. We recognize the need of furthering teachers security through such methods as tenure laws but we hesitate to go on record as suggesting specific solutions.

6. We would like to see a standardization of fundamental courses throughout the states but we vigorously oppose any tendency toward centralization of power.

7. We endorse any group action whose purpose is to improve the profession. The commission also endorses effort of such organizations to develop a professional morale and attitude among prospective teachers in high schools and Colleges, for example we might cite the organization sponsored by the "National Education Association," "Future Teachers of America."

8. We believe that student council in teachers College should seek to further a program that would stimulate among the students an intelligent and progressive attitude toward world problems which they can later impart to their students.

TEACHERS COLLEGES—Minority

A. We realize that there are numerous limitations to the idea of presenting technique as part of content courses. Some of these are as follows:

1. Some professors who are authorities in their field and who can give students fine background work lack in their presentation any method that students can use in their own teaching.

2. Some courses cannot be adapted to this idea because of the vast amount of subject matter, as in history.

3. Too many courses will become juvenile in nature, if adapted to and presented by techniques suitable to high school teaching.

4. Such procedure would make teachers college classes objectionable to students in the College who are not preparing for teaching.

5. Even if technique were used it could not meet the demands of elementary and secondary degree students.

B. We are opposed determinedly to any and all forms of teachers oaths. We object to being members of a "suspect profession."

C. Teachers Colleges, we feel, should offer both degrees in education and in liberal arts. Such a system would make graduate work in the liberal arts easier for graduates of teachers Colleges.

THE HONOR SYSTEM

1. We recommend the adoption of the honor system in our American colleges and universities, realizing, however, that its effective functioning might be limited in the larger institutions by heterogeneous student bodies. In such cosmopolitan schools, in initiation of an honor system is very difficult, and in cases where a successful system is found, it is usually implemented by a well-grounded tradition.

In order to overcome the above-mentioned difficulty, we suggest that the system be instituted by units starting with the professional and graduate schools; later to include the whole student body.

2. We do not recommend the setting up of an honor system, however, until and unless the student body has expressed a positive desire and a receptive attitude toward the installation. Such an attitude must be built up through forums, polls, publicly, etc. over a period of two or three years—the time and success of the drive depending on the circumstances at the different institutions.

Even after it is inaugurated, the constructive work must be continued in all classes. Particularly do we strongly recommend that adequate steps be taken to educate freshmen in the spirit of the system by means of an intensive-orientation program, worked out on the respective campuses.

3. As a result of our discussion, we suggest varying scopes of jurisdiction in the honor system depending upon the circumstances in the various schools — some including only the classroom; others including such matters as social discipline, and still others all-inclusive of a student's life.

4. The responsibility for the functioning of an honor system rests with each individual student. The commission recommends that infractions of the system both handled by student honor council. In some cases, however, we feel that it would be wise to have faculty members acting in an advisory capacity.

In our discussion, we found that the various honor systems were enforced by the method of class-room tapping, by the individual student or by faculty members reporting my violations to the honor council. In order to assure fair treatment of offenders, we found a number of schools have an appeal court which includes faculty members.

5. In the punishment of offenders, we recommend the principle of rehabilitating the student rather than uncompromising suspension. We feel that the consideration of a student's background, his attitude, his personality, and the nature of the offense plays an important part in properly dealing out justice. The majority opinion favors withholding the name of the violator from publication to his fellow students.

6. We realize that honor systems must vary in structure and operation on different campuses. We do feel, however, that the fundamental basis for its success on any campus is the development of an attitude of social responsibility and individual honor which must be fostered in every student.

Bearcats Win Three Games Out Of Five at Invitation Tourney In Oklahoma City Christmas Week

Locals Lose to Baylor, Emporia Teams By One Point Each; Stalcup Says Team Gains Valuable Experience

The Maryville Bearcats fought their way through the annual Oklahoma City basketball tournament during Christmas week to wind up with a record of three wins and two losses. Both games the Bearcats dropped were decided by one point, one decision going to Baylor University and one to the Emporia Teachers. The tournament was won by the Warrensburg Mules, conference rivals of the Bearcats.

Coch Wilbur Stalcup, speaking of the tournament said, "We gained a lot of valuable experience. We met almost every brand of basketball that is played—slow break, fast break, zone defense, man to man defense, and combinations."

In their opening contest the Bearcats took a low-scoring game from the Wichita University cagers 22 to 16. The score at half time was 9 to 2, the Kansas boys being unable to register a single field goal against the alert Green and White cagers. Donald Johnson took the scoring honors for the locals with a total of seven points, five of them free throws. The Bearcats were all dead at the free throw line, sinking a combined total of fourteen during the game.

Down Texas Tech
Texas Tech was the next victim of the Bearcats. Coach Stalcup's men staged a passing game that had the Texans dizzy at times and wound up with a 37 to 30 victory. They were ahead all the way but were hard pressed on two occasions in the second period when the Raiders staged brief rallies. Don Johnson, Maryville guard, was high scorer again with four field goals.

The third round of the tournament proved to be the Bearcats' Waterloo as they dropped a thrilling see-saw battle to the Baylor University quintet, 29 to 28. After leading by three points at half time, the Maryville five slowly dropped behind as Vaughn, Baylor forward, suddenly found his eye and began hitting field baskets with uncanny success. Coach Stalcup used eleven of the twelve players who made the trip and Hull, forward, led the Bearcats scoring with nine points, one behind Vaughn who was high point man for the game.

Lose to Emporia
Misfortune continued to dog the Bearcats when they met the Emporia, Kansas Teachers and lost another thriller by one point, the score being 24 to 25. Maryville took an early lead over the Kansas, being out in front at one time 11 to 4, and late in the second half holding a 23 to 19 advantage. During the final few minutes, however, the Kansas Teachers found the basket and staged the rally that won the game. A field goal in the closing seconds by forward Junior Forney gave them the margin of victory.

The Bearcats hit their stride again, however, against the Drury College five and romped over the hapless Springfield cagers to the tune of 37 to 28 in their final tournament appearance. Taking a 25 to 11 advantage at half time they controlled the game throughout. Scoring honors were divided among Jake Chames of Drury and Ike Howell and Harold Hull of Maryville, each ringing up eight points.

FAILURE BROUGHT SUCCESS TO GLENN "POP" WARNER

Philadelphia—ACP—Glenn S. "Pop" Warner, Temple University's 68-year-old grid mentor, is one man to whom failure brought success.

After graduation from Cornell, Warner hung out his law shingle in his home town, and cooled his heels on top of his desk for two months without a single case. When the chance to coach Iowa State College came along, he took it with the intention of continuing his law work later. The twenty-five dollar per week salary, in the words of "Pop," seemed like "big money."

When "Pop" did decide to coach he did it in a big way too. After he had accepted the job at Iowa State, he received an offer from the University of Georgia which he also accepted, being probably the only football coach to hold two coaching jobs in one season. He devoted the first month of the season to Iowa State and the remainder of the season to Georgia. Following the characteristic Warner style, both teams had successful seasons. "Pop" says, "Football got into my blood after the first season, and I never did go back to law work. I have been in the game for forty years and get a bigger kick out of it today than I did when I first started."

IRISH MEN INCLUDED ON DETROIT U. SQUAD

Detroit, Mich.—ACP—Shure, the Irish are a'comin' back into the football picture at the University of Detroit.

On the present freshman squad are more than two dozen boys of Irish extraction and a good percentage of them look like future material.

There are Brennans and O'Connors, and McLaughlins, and Goodriches, and Burkes and Callahans and Cooleys and Gleasons, and Shannahans and Moores, and all the rest of the names that have brought fame to the sons of the "Auld Sod." For years the Irish dominated the Titan squad but of late years there have been few of them.

Texas Christian University statisticians have figured out that the Horned Frogs' game averages 140 plays each.

Credit unions have been organized at Missouri's five state teachers colleges.

Grinnell College has opened a typing bureau.

Locals Open Loop Competition on Miners' Court

Bearcats to Swing Through South Missouri Next Week

The College basketball squad will leave Sunday afternoon for Rolla where they will meet the Miners in an encounter Monday night. They will then travel on Tuesday to Cape Girardeau for a game with the Indians of the Teachers College there.

A tentative squad of fourteen men has been named by Coach Stalcup for the swing through South Missouri. They are as follows:

Richard Shroat, Quentin Goslee, Don Johnson, Dean Walker, Bob Rogers, Dale Hackett, Ike Howell, Harold Hutcheson, Neil Weary, Russell Dowell, Gale Donahue, Bob Alpert, Russell Insley and Ivan Schotzel.

Glenn Breckenridge and Harold Hull were not named on this list because of ineligibility due to a conference rule. They will become eligible for conference play later this month.

Last year the Bearcats were the victors at Rolla, defeating the Miners 41 to 27, but then lost the second game of the trip to Cape, 16 to 20.

The Rolla game will mark the opening of competition in the M. I. A. A. for the Bearcats. The locals, along with Warrensburg, are favored by many to win the conference championship. Last year the Bearcats were runners-up in the conference race, placing second to the Warrensburg Mules who were awarded the loop crown.

Arnold Lasley, Hopkins, a freshman in the College, was injured Tuesday evening, Dec. 27, on Burlington Junction's basketball court when he slipped and fell on the floor in such a manner as to break a bone in his wrist. Lasley is a member of the Bearcat basketball squad. Lasley was playing for a Maryville town team in a game against the Burlington Junction Sharpshooters. His injured arm was cared for by a physician and he returned to Hopkins shortly following the accident.

Bearcat Claws . . .

by ken lawson

While the rest of us were at home enjoying the vacation with our friends and relatives the Bearcats traveled many miles and played six basketball games. Five of these games were played in Oklahoma City at the annual collegiate tournament held there. The last game was played Monday night at Pittsburg, Kansas.

The Bearcats were successful as far as percentage was concerned, winning four games and losing two. But, according to reports of the games and the way the scores were, it seems that the Bearcats could have won the tournament. They lost two games in the tournament each of these by one point.

The Bearcats started out in great shape, winning their first two games. They defeated Wichita University in the first game, 22-16, and Texas Tech 37-30 in the second game. The old one-point jinx caught up with them in the third game and they lost to Baylor University 29-28 and again in the fourth game they were defeated by one point by the Emporia, Kas., State Teachers College, 25-24. In their final game the Bearcats hit their stride again and came through with a victory over Drury 37-28. On the trip back to Missouri the Bearcats stopped over at Pittsburg, Kas., and defeated the Pittsburg Teachers in two overtime periods, 36-35.

There were some very large schools represented in the tournament and the odds were against a small school winning. But, even though it was not Maryville that came through to win, the tournament was won by a school which plays in the MIAA. Warrensburg State Teachers won the tournament with an amazing show of speed, height and precision. All the commentators forecast that Warrensburg had little power this year, but the excellent play of the Mules in the Oklahoma City tournament belies these reports and it looks as if the Warrensburg boys would be pointing to another MIAA title. We followers of the Bearcats, however, think that Warrensburg will have a tough time eliminating Maryville from the picture.

The Bearcats open their league competition next week when they meet Rolla on January 9 and will then journey on to the south to meet Cape Girardeau on the following day. The next home game for the Bearcats will be on January 16 when Pittsburg will meet the Bearcats at the local gym.

Don Johnson was the offensive star of the Bearcats' conquests during the holiday period, he was high scorer in practically every game in the tournament and then scored eleven points to come out on top at Pittsburg Monday night. Keep it up, Don.

The next issue of the paper will carry glowing reports of Maryville winning two conference games in as many starts. If not then I will personally take the blame for the prophecy and building up everyone's hopes. You had better win Bearcats.

Tad Reid Joins Cage Clinic at Des Moines, Ia.

Mr. Tad C. Reid, superintendent of operations of the College, acted as an instructor in the free school for basketball coaches at the Drake fieldhouse in Des Moines, Ia., during the Christmas vacation week. The school was sponsored by the Des Moines Register and Tribune.

Reid, who coached basketball at the Warrensburg State Teacher's College, came to this College last March.

The following paragraphs are taken from the Des Moines Register of December 23, 1938:

"On his way to the basketball heights, Reid drilled his teams in the varied offenses and the man-for-man defense. In his coaching he stresses 'Play selection by situations,' 'scientific rebound play,' and 'scoring areas as related to plays,' says Reid.

"I believe there is going to be a definite change in this section in the style of play, which, if developed early enough by any team, can be used to advantage. It seems to me because of the technique and finesse demanded of players now, their preparation training period is the vital part of the team's development."

Bearcats Win at Pittsburg in Two Overtime Periods

Johnson Scores Eleven Points in 36-35 Victory

The Bearcat basketball team, en route home from the Oklahoma City tournament, stopped at Pittsburg, Kas., Monday night of this week and won from the Gorillas by one point after two overtime periods. This is the first extra-period game that the 'Cats have played this year.

There was a good deal of close guarding all through the game, but in spite of this both teams hit an unusually large number of their shots. The lead changed hands several times during the encounter, and Pittsburg lead at the half 12 to 11.

The teams were tied at 27 each at the end of the regular playing time. Each team made seven points in the first overtime period. Free throws by Goslee and Rogers won the game for Maryville in the second overtime period, but Uhlenhop made the score close with a free throw for Pittsburg. The final score was 36 to 35, Maryville.

Both teams had played in the Oklahoma City tournament.

Coach Wilbur Stalcup used ten Maryville players in the game. Don Johnson led the pack of Bearcats in scoring with five buckets and a free throw. Uhlenhop, Gorilla guard, was not far behind, making ten points for his share of the scoring. Coach Ryland Milner, football coach and assistant basketball mentor, was one of the referees, serving in the place of another who was unable to be present.

Three From Maryville
Another interesting fact, three of the six are from Maryville. Hull and Donahue were members of the Maryville high team that went to the state tournament four consecutive years were champions in 1937. Russell received the award given to the state champion. Another Maryville man and one of the Dowell brothers was at one time or another, in fine court play.

Five of the six men are more, Dowell is a senior. He is the shortest member of the measuring 5 feet 8 inches. Johnson was listed as being Maryville, but his home is in berry.

Coach Stalcup can pick averaging 6 feet 4 3/4 inches the floor, but to date his five have been averaging 6 feet 1 inch.

Other members of the squad made the trip, were: Dean Jackson; Neil Weary, Co. Richard Shroat, Calhoun; H. ell, Columbus, Ga.; and Rogers, Jackson. Three others were kept out for the holidays. They were: Kenneth ell and Russell Insley, both villians, and Glen Breck Smithville. Dowell and ridge are sophomores while a freshman.
